COURT RULES OUT PORTION OF F. D. WARE'S TESTIMONY

Not Allowed to Tell of Overtures Made to Prevent Formation of Ware-Kramer Company---Progress in Suit Against A. T. Co.

Special to Telegram.
Raleigh, June 26.—In Federal Court this afternoon Judge Connor refused to admit the testimony by F. D. Ware, president of the Ware-Kramer Company, in answer to R. G. Briggs, president of American Tobacco Company, branch of American Tobacco Company, made overtures to buy machinery already purchased and employ Ware at a large sum if the formation of the independent company was stopped. The plaintiff excepted to this ruling.

Ware reviewed the volume of manufacture and sales of cigarettes by his company to show the trade established and then hammered down by the A. T. Co. regarding the goods and other matters.

When the federal court convened at 10 o'clock this afternoon for the resumption of the trial of the million and two hundred thousand dollar damage suit of Ware-Kramer Tobacco Co. vs. American Tobacco Co., the statement was made by counsel for the plaintiff that the Jno. Tronstine deposition, a portion of which was read Friday before objections to essential features caused the reading to be suspended, would be withdrawn for the present. Counsel for the defense made the point that it could not be permanently withdrawn owing to a portion of it having already been read. At the request of the plaintiff's counsel the court took a recess to 2:30 when Plaintiff F. D. Ware went on the stand with prospects that it will require three days or longer to finish with him.

The Tronstine evidence is that of Jno. Tronstine, metal furniture manufacturer, of New York, who held $36,000 stock in the Ware-Kramer Co. and in which the relations of co-defendant W. M. Carter to the plaintiff and defendant corporations enters very largely.

INDICTMENT AGAINST PAPER BOARD TRUST

Special to Telegram.
New York, June 26.—An indictment formulated under the criminal provision of the Sherman law was returned today in the federal grand jury against the Eastern Box Board club. In the indictment the president and officers of the paper board corporations are charged with being an alleged combination in restraint of trade. The concern is known as the paper box trust and in 1910 was ordered to be dissolved by the United States Circuit court here. Pleas of guilty are entered by the 39 corporations forming that trust.

BALLINGER DISAPPROVES OF DECISION

Seattle, Wash., June 26.—Ex-Secretary of Interior Ballinger issued a statement tonight in which he said that there were no grounds for the rejection of the Cunningham Coal claims and that the decision was political, not judicial.

Girl Leaves Home to Join Circus.

Special to Telegram.
Alexandria, Va., June 26.—As one of those that go to make up a circus, Viola Green, of Culpeper, left that place last week with a circus which arrived here this morning to fill week's engagement. A special policeman found the girl in one of the freight cars and upon questioning her got a story of her adventures. He took her to the police headquarters where she is being held for her people.

COMMITTEE FINDS LABOR LEADERS ARE GUILTY OF CONTEMPT

Suggests That Gompers, Mitchell And Morris-
son Apologize to Court For Conduct

Special to Telegram.

Washington, June 26.—Guilty of contempt of court with a suggestion that they apologize to the court is the unanimous verdict submitted today against Samuel Gompers, John Mitchell and Frank Morrison, of American Federation of Labor, to Justice Wright of the District Supreme Court by the special committee appointed to inquire into the action of the labor leaders in connection with their boycott of the Buck Stove and Range Company. Immediately following the report Justice Wright issued a rule against the three labor leaders ordering them to show cause by Monday, July 17, why they should not be adjudged in contempt of court. If they will follow the suggestion of the committee it is believed that they will escape being sentenced to jail as they were a year ago by Justice Wright in the boycott proceedings, this decision being set aside by the Supreme Court of the United States.

ELECTION FRAUD IN ZION CITY

Special to Telegram.
Waukegan, Ill., June 26.—One hundred and ninety indictments, including one for General Overseer Wilbur Glenn Zoubeva, of Zion City, were returned by a special grand jury this evening, charging conspiracy to violate the election laws.

FUNK

Testified Before Lorimer Investigating Committee—Hines Hears Testimony.

Special to Telegram.
Washington, June 26.—Clarence Funk, general manager of the International Harvester Company, whose account of an alleged request to him by Edward Hines, of Chicago, for a $10,000 contribution toward a $100,000 Lorimer election fund, caused an investigation by the Illinois Senate committee and a second investigation by the United States Senate, appeared today before the Senate Lorimer Investigating committee.

Mr. Funk described in detail the efforts made to secure contributions to the Lorimer election fund. He said that as general manager of the harvester concern, it was one of his duties to keep in touch with political affairs. He declared, however, that never to his knowledge had the company used money to get votes in legislatures or congress. He said, as far as he could, he had always avoided discussing Lorimer personally.

Mr. Hines, by special request was allowed to stay in the committee room during the hearing.

Memorial to Louisa M. Alcott Planned by the Girls Who Have Read and Loved Her Stories.

Orchard House, formerly the home of Louisa M. Alcott, in Concord, N. H., is to become a permanent memorial to her memory. The Concord Women's club has the movement in charge, and thousands of girls all over the country who have loved Miss Alcott's stories and the characters she created are expected to contribute the sum of $5,000 needed to consummate the plan. In this house "Little Women" was written, and little paintings and sketches by Amy may still be seen upon the woodwork in some of the rooms.

ARMY Posts to be Reduced to Half Present Number Says Maj. Wood.

Special to Telegram.
Washington, June 26.—The war department is preparing to reduce the number of army posts by one half, according to Maj. Gen. Wood, who was a witness today before the House committee investigating the war department. This is in line with the policy of concentration of the armed land forces of the United States which has been worked out by the war department. If the posts are abandoned by the government millions of dollars of property will probably be thrown away as no further use of the posts can be made. In commenting on the activity of troops along the Mexican border, Maj. Wood said the proposition was a success.

DEPARTMENT OF INTERIOR KNOCKS OUT COAL CLAIMS

Special to Telegram.
Washington, June 26.—The Cunningham Coal claims in the Bearing River fields of Alaska were cancelled by the landoffice commission here today. The Ballinger-Pinchot feud is ended, after 10 years of fighting, with a victory for Pinchot and defeat for Ballinger.

The effect is to cancel the holdings of Cunningham of 33 claims to 5250 acres. The claims covered are not only the heart of the field, but its richest part. The holdings of the Guggenheim syndicate, include the railroads and their ownership would have given them control of entire field. The Cunningham claim was transferred to Guggenheim in 1907. Cunningham will appeal, but with the findings of interior department there is no doubt but that decision will be sustained in court. The Cunningham claim is returned to public domain and the lands will continue immune until the order is revoked. There are now pending various other groups of Alaska coal claims. All are under suspension, but Secretary Fisher stated they will be acted upon as soon as possible.

How tremendous was the prize now saved to the public is shown by the fact that the Guggenheim claims are worth $500,000,000 and that there would be $11,000,000 profit to people who would develop them.

REMOVE TARIFF AND SUGAR COMPANIES WILL GO TO WALL So Declares John D. Speckles Before Su- gar Investigating Committee

Special to Telegram.
Washington, June 26.—The story of the relation of the cane and beet sugar interests and the so-called sugar trust, the American Sugar Refining Company, was told before the House Committee in the investigation of sugar by John D. Speckles, of San Francisco, formerly connected with the Speckles Philadelphia plant, which was sold to the American Sugar Company. It was expected that Prophet Joseph S. Smith, head of the Mormon church, and head of the Idaho Sugar Company would testify but Prophet Smith was not called as a witness and will probably be called tomorrow.

Speckles told the committee that the company in 1903 entered into an agreement with the California and Hawaii companies to cut down the output. This company had, he said, lost $800,000 the year before. He said that the removal of the sugar tariff would ruin the sugar industries. Take off the tariff and none but the larger companies will survive, he said, and even these will not be in business long.

OIL KING

In New York to Attend Conferences of Trust Officials, it is Believed.

Special to Telegram.
Cleveland, Ohio, June 26.—Cleveland friends of John D. Rockefeller are now convinced that the oil king's sudden departure from this city Saturday was due to his desire to attend conferences at Standard Oil headquarters in New York, at which the future of this big trust is to be planned and a new organization is to be effected and arrangements made to comply with the recent decision of the Supreme court.

DEMANDS That Madero Change Of- ficials in State of Mexico.

Special to Telegram.
Mexico City, June 22.—A newspaper here published an alarming story this evening of a threat made against Madero by Gen. Vera, who demands that a change be made in the government of the State of Mexico and that an investigation be made in the disappearance of 9,000 pesos from the state treasury. Gen. Vera had a well organized force of 5,000 men. He declared that he will attack the state capital if his demands are not met inside of 48 hours.

MASONIC PICNIC AT NORTH WILKESBORO

Quite a number of local Masons and many others not Masons have expressed the intention of going on the excursion to North Wilkesboro tomorrow. This is a splendid trip, through pretty country, up into the mountainous country of Wilkes, and along by the beautiful Yadkin river scenery.

The train leaves the depot here tomorrow morning at 6:30 o'clock. The fare for round trip from Greensboro is $2.50 and the ticket entitles the bearer to dinner also. A big picnic will be held at North Wilkesboro tomorrow by the Masons of Wilkes and adjoining counties. The grand lodge will be in session and officers of visiting lodges will be installed. Was Defeated by Viva Voce Vote After Which Senate Resumed Discussion of Reciprocity Bill---President Taft Greatly Pleased.

WOMEN OF MEXICO PETITION CONGRESS FOR DIVORCE LAW

President De La Barra States That He Will Bring Matter Before Congress.

Special to Telegram.

Mexico City, June 26.—The first defiance of the Catholic church under the new regime appeared today in the form of a petition signed by 500 women praying that President De La Barra, formulate a divorce law and present the same to Congress. Though Diaz opposed the Catholic church he was not in favor of divorces and a divorce law has never been possible in Mexico. The women asked for absolute divorce law. Should such a law be passed the Catholic hold in Mexico would be gone. President De La Barra received the petition and promised to take the matter up with congress at an early date.

Tie Up in Amsterdam.
Amsterdam, June 26.—Shipping was paralyzed today when marine and yacht men went on strike. Five marine companies were compelled to suspend operations.

DAMAGE CLAIMS AGAINST MEXICO

El Paso, June 26.—Indemnity claims amounting to $200,000 have been filed by citizens of Arizona against the Mexican government for damages resulting from the battle of Agua Prieta. More than half the total amount was asked by Americans who were wounded as a result of shells falling on American soil.

STATE SCHOOL FOR FEEBLE MINDED GOES TO KINSTON

Municipal Court Docket.

John Minnow, another defendant on the charge of retailing, appeared on trial in Municipal court yesterday morning. However, the evidence brought out in the case was not sufficient for conviction and John was declared not guilty.

John Mesley, a young white boy, was tried on the charge of assaulting a companion, Ernest Richardson, with a deadly weapon. The crime was committed during an affray between the parties on June 6, and young Richardson was painfully cut on the head with a trowel. All the evidence was taken in the case and judgment was continued until this morning.

Baraca Class Meeting.

There will be a business meeting of the Ebenezer Baraca Class of the First Reformed church tonight. All members are requested to be present as there is some important business to be brought up before the class. L. C. Terry, president; G. C. Varner, treasurer.

Special to Telegram.
Washington, June 26.—The United States Senate late this afternoon by a viva voce vote defeated the Root amendment to the Canadian reciprocity pact. The Root amendment provided for a duty on wood pulp and print paper imported into this country from provinces in Canada upon which a prohibitory or export tax had been placed by the Canadian government. After the vote was taken the Senate resumed its discussion of the Canadian agreement, which is now in the form in which it was passed by the House.

President Taft upon being acquainted with the action of the Senate was greatly pleased. He enthusiastically expressed himself as satisfied that the Canadian agreement would be passed by the Senate before August 1, as stated by Senator Penrose, chairman of the Senate Finance committee, who had a long talk with the President today.

SAILORS STRIKE REACHES AN ALARMING STAGE.

Special to Telegram.
London, June 26.—The sailors' strike which seemed all but settled last week assumed an alarming stage today when several thousand employees of firms that have not met the demand for increased wages went out on a strike. More men are now out than at any time since the strike was called. Railway employees are now considering the advisability of joining in a sympathetic strike.

Was Fatally Hurt.
Special to Telegram.

Staunton, Va., June 26.—George Cary Page was fatally injured by an explosion of coal dust today, being thrown thirty feet and receiving serious burns.

WORLD PEACE ENDORSED BY BAPTISTS

Washington, June 26.—To end a world tour with greetings from President Taft, Speaker Champ Clark and high officials of government and diplomatic circles 300 members who have been attending the Baptists World's Alliance in session in Philadelphia, arrived in Washington this morning. They presented the President with a copy of resolutions passed by that body endorsing his stand for world wide peace.

SERIOUS CUTTING AFFAIR ON AN EXCURSION TRAIN

Danville "boozee" was the cause of another crime on one of the numerous excursions that are now becoming so popular running from the dry towns of this state to the nearby city on the Dan which is the haven of dampness and of delight to the parched throats of the Tar Heels forced to become teetotalers. When the train which passed through yesterday from Durham was returning with, to say the least, a rum crowd aboard, two drunken white men became involved in a difficulty and as a result Jessie Nix is lying at St. Leo's Hospital with a severe gash of several inches in his throat and Robert Bennett is spending some time in the county jail. Both live in Durham.

The tragedy occurred between Brown Summit and Benaja, just within the boundary of this county. The assault will be held in the county jail here awaiting developments in the condition of his victim, who was in a fearfully weak state on his arrival here from loss of blood without medical attention. He was carried immediately in a carriage to the hospital and given all care known to the best skill of the city physicians.

A report from the hospital early this morning after the wound had been treated stated that though desperately wounded it is thought that Nix will recover.

can without the daily guidance of the

try, from time to time, publish figures to show what a rushing business they are doing in prohibition territory. They frequently assert that more liquors are sold in dry territory now than were marketed in the same territory before it became prohibition ground. This is a most peculiar state of affairs. It seems that good business men (and the brewers and distillers are acknowledged to be sharp and smooth in the manipulation of their own affairs) would favor the conditions which created the greatest demand for their products; yet we find the brewers and distillers fighting prohibition all along the line. If prohibition increases the sales of liquors, why are the brewers and distillers opposed to prohibition? In opposing prohibition they are opposing that which helps their business.

KEEP GREENSBORO'S MONEY AT HOME.

The coronation robes and accessories for the King and Queen of England according to the press dispatches were all made in England by subjects of their majesties. This is a good example for Americans to follow. The "patronize home industry" slogan is a splendid one.
The principle is undoubtedly correct.
We should spend our money in the community among the merchants with whom we live and from whom we derive the larger part of our own sustenance. This question involves other phases too. There are two sides to the question, in other words. Some merchants have the impression that they should be patronized in preference to outsiders even where their goods are inferior and their prices higher, and they sometimes complain that they are not getting what is due them from the home people. Now this is the other side of the question. No merchant has a right to expect the patronage unless his stocks and prices at least compare favorably with those to be gotten elsewhere. In the smaller markets it is to be expected that the prices and the variety to select from will fall short of those offered in the larger centers, but all things being equal the home patronage plan should not necessitate the purchaser paying more than a reasonable additional amount. Certainly not more than the freight or express or transportation charges from the larger market would be. If the home merchants provide good stocks, keeping up with the times and seeing to it that their stocks are always fresh and up-to-date and that the prices are right the home people will patronize them. The home merchant must be content to get a reasonable profit and if he is not content to do so he does not merit the patronage of his fellow towns people.
The Greensboro Telegram thinks that the stocks and prices in Greensboro as a whole average up very favorably. But let the merchants keep this in mind and see to it that their counters afford the shopper all that they may reasonably look for and let us keep Greensboro's money at home. We need it. Let us be clannish in this matter.

The Diary of Alexander H. Stephens.

Prison literature has a romantic appeal. Remote from life, unfortunates with ability must build up for themselves an ideal world, or die. The result is often great meditative or religious works, or accounts of curious friendships with spiders or birds, arising from oppression of a heart withdrawn from human love. Bunyan, in prison, wrote of the struggles of lonely Christian toward the uncompromising freedom of salvation, after the attainment of which, as is true also of Crusoe's release from his island, the story loses its intense human interest. Jules Verne's "Mysterious Island" tells of Yankee prisoners held captive in a balloon by the wind as they escape to the island to begin a final imprisonment among the boundaries of solitary nature. All this is interesting to an outsider, the more an outsider, the better. Consequently, in this day of reminiscences and tales, and a more detached view of men and events clears the perspective, a peculiar interest attaches to the prison diary of Alexander H. Stephens. His life behind the bastioned and parapeted ramparts of Fort Warren, on George's Island, in Boston harbor, from May 25, 1865, until his release, lacks, it is true, the dramatic element of Monte Cristo's despair in the Chateau D'If; falls short of Baron Trenck's marvelous achievements in burrowing from dungeons; and has none of the dawning optimism, with the goal about to come in sight, which marks Signor Pellicio's account, in "I Miei Prigi-oni," of the prison experiences of Italian patriots. Yet this daily account is an important historical and literary document. It is especially noteworthy for its statesmanlike plans of a sane reconstruction of the South, and also for the simple and moving account of the daily opinions and thoughts of a lovable man.

His journal, forming the main part of Myrta Lockett Avery's book, just appearing, gives the routine and opinions of this frail little man whose body weighed less than a hundred pounds, and whose life had been "one constant physical pain." It shows him to be a man who, in the words of The Evening Post, "had done what he could to prevent war; who had, after the war was over, remained quietly at home, ready, to present himself for trial. He struggled uncomplainingly against pain and illness, scarcely able, at times, to stand upright; wept at the thought of his family; sought consolation in his much-thumbed Bible, or in simple prayer; gave himself up to religious and philosophical reflection, trying desperately to justify the ways of God to man; and if guilty, after all, of momentary irritation and complaint one day, humbly took himself to task for it the next."

His views on political and constitutional questions, as one should expect, appear in the journal. Most often cited in contrast with those of Northern leaders, his contentions show the same point of view, one that exalted constitutions and regarded political liberty as already attained, as a recorded definition rather than a thing to be achieved amid the flux of changing events and conditions. In the prison journal Stephens says: "No one ever lived with stronger feelings of devotion to the Constitution of the United States and the Union under it than myself. For the Union barely, without the rights and guarantees secured by the Constitution, I never entertain or profess any attachment." Nor for Webster was there any higher law than the Constitution.

As the New York Times says in a review of the work:

"His idol was the Constitution, and he clung to it in every weather; he arraigned the government of Davis as well as that of Lincoln for what he regarded as encroachments upon that sacred instrument, and earned the hatred of Davis, though he kept the esteem of Lincoln to the last. He sought peace, and it was he who brought about the Hampton Roads conference with that end in view.

He thinks Johnson is committing
"a great error in building up the old secession element in the South. . . . the basis of reconstruction should have been in the old Union element."

As Mrs. Avery remarks, "He was the one public man of his day who remained throughout the war neither Southern nor Northern but American. Stephens was a Union man. He fought secession and was made vice president to represent that element."

After his release he urged personally upon President Johnson to stand for suffrage for such blacks "as could come up to some proper standard of mental and moral culture with the possession of a specified amount of property." Such a plan would break the power of "the violent radical element" and also would have "a beneficial effect upon the black population in holding out a strong inducement for improvement." Like Burke, he enjoys the distinction of having been right in important matters, though unable to convince others of the fact.

"It might have been" bears no grapes.
Yet a digression is allowable to pay our respects to those who argue, from documents let fall just before or amid the tumult and agony of war, that a successful South would have been "a rope of sand," certain, from the heterogeneity of its composite parts, to fall asunder.
Timrod, in his "Cotton Boll," gives a vision of the triumphant and unified South. The imagination and the ability and the love were not lacking. Men like Stephens add their testimony of the readiness of Southern statesmen to have met conditions as they arose. Since the "contracted view" of the Constitution has given rise to the nation as it is today, there are those who may see in a national asset like Stephens the possibility of leadership; with ideas and ability broad enough to have reconstructed the North and formed a glorified country as great as that of today.

His journal, finally, has a way of springing the imagination. The pathos of the lonely life yearning for home, and the benevolent solicitude for the old body servants and slaves; the sedulously cultivated intimacy with the prison mouse; his attack upon the night-disturbances of his cot, the delight with which he eats a melon, "not so sweet and delicious as Georgia melons;" his deep-rooted religious and emotional nature, his companionship with Job, and criticism of Bacon, Cicero, Aristotle, Prescott, and Arnold all combine to give a worthy picture of a great American.—Columbia State.

"Malicious Adiposity."

Here is a story of the late General Shafter, who, although himself a man of compulsion, had a dislike to fat soldiers.
"They're no use!" he would bluster in his tremendous bass. "They pant, they wheeze, they snort, they choke, they grunt, they groan, they waddle, they slouch through the world! Not a particle of good on earth, fat soldiers!
would not have one of 'em if I could help it!"

"Er—but—er—you would not exactly call yourself slight, would you, colonel?"
a major once asked Shafter after one of those outbursts.

"Slight? No!" Shafter thundered in reply. "I've been a fat old nuisance ever since the day I tipped the beam at over two hundred pounds, and then I ought to have been court-martialed and cashiered for outrageous and malicious ad-iposity, sir—for scandalous corpulence to the prejudice of military discipline!"

Mr. Fumer—You haven't another cigar like the one you gave me the other day, have you?

Mr. Willing—Yes, here's one.
Mr. Fumer—Thanks, old man. I'm trying to break my boy of smoking.

Targets For Misfortunes Arrows

(By HARRIET PRESCOTT SPOFFORD)
Many individuals possess what may be called an aptitude to suffer injury.
They not only accept it at every turn and receive it at every pore, but actually seem to hunt it up and lie in wait for it.

Nothing falls that does not hit them;
nothing breaks that does not hurt them;
nothing happens anyway that they do not reap a golden harvest of wrong from it.
These people are miserable, as a matter of course—that goes without saying;
but they would be utterly and hopelessly miserable if they could not at any moment scrape the substance of an injury together to solace some heavy hour destitute of other excitement.

If somebody has not backbitten them, somebody is just about to do so; if somebody has not cheated them, somebody would like to cheat them, and if the number of ill-intentioned living is sufficient to feed the appetite for boasted suffering, there is always an ancestry—fortunate thing!—to fall back upon, whose wrong-doings have been innumerable, and the results of whose wrongdoings are incalculable.

Of course these injured beings never do anything to provoke injury. They never insinuate or whine; they never openly and underhandedly charge the innocent with outrage; they never weary the patient with complaining, or repay good intentions with unceasing reproach, or "nag" the worm till it turns; they never make themselves so disagreeable that people avoid them and escape them in self-defense; and they are never by any means so insolent over imaginary injuries that it becomes impossible for those having any self-respect at all to explain the circumstances and do away with the error; they never in effect do anything but conduct themselves like suffering saints waiting for their translation.

Why, then, it may be asked, should anybody want to injure them? But there is the mystery, the problem they are always trying to solve, and whose solution, though they reach it in twenty days, will never be other than to the satisfaction of their self-esteem; and they invariably fall back on a comforting belief that they receive the injury because of envy of their superior virtues, grace, beauties, or position.

HAPPY HOMES

(By MRS. GEORGE BRANDT WIN-THROP.)

Children are naturally lovers of home, and it is only where parents refuse or neglect to make the home happy that boys and girls, after childhood has passed, drift away and find attraction and sometimes actual peace, in other places.
I receive many letters from parents who complain that their children are not affectionate and do not care for life in the house, and in numerous cases the parents are in fault.

They do not make the house a home.
Young people have a right to be happy, and parents, even if they have forgotten their own youth, should do all in their power to make the children as happy as possible.

It is not a question of money or of expensive toys, or rich food. The child of poor parents loves his home and turns to its mother and father for love and protection, because that love and care are not withheld. Children are quick to see that they are not wanted, and the coolness of mother or father, although quite unintentional, has driven many a high-spirited boy and warm-hearted girl out into the world, at an age when the love and protection of home is most important.

What Bobbie Wanted to Know.

He asked so many questions that day that he finally wore out his mother's patience.

"Robert," she cried, "if you ask me another question I shall put you to bed without your supper."

Robert promptly asked another and was packed off to bed.

Later his mother repented. After all, asking questions was the only way he could acquire knowledge; so she tiptoed upstairs, knelt beside his bed and told him she was sorry.

"Now, dear," she said, "if you want to ask one more question before you go to sleep, ask it now and I will try to answer."

Robert thought for a moment, then said: "Mother, how far can a cat spit?"

MUCH INTEREST IN BIG INTERCOLLEGIATE ROWING REGATTA

Quintet of College Will Contest Today For Honors at Pough- keepsie.

Special to Telegram.

Poughkeepsie, N. Y., June 26.—On the eve of the big intercollegiate rowing regatta, a great restlessness has settled over this region. At the training camps of five of our biggest universities—Corn-nell, Columbia, Pennsylvania, Syracuse and Wisconsin—a total of nearly 200 stalwart oarsmen were forced today to idle away their time, recuperating from the nerve-racking work of the last two weeks, so as to be in the best possible shape for the crucial test tomorrow.

Every incoming train brought scores upon scores of enthusiastic and noise-making partisans of the different crews who insisted upon seeing their favorites and celebrating with them in honor of the coming event. But they were disappointed in having to steer clear of the athletes, each of the coaches isolating his proteges as far as possible, from the bedlam that reigned. A trying time it was for the quintet of the country's foremost mentors in oarsmanship—Courtney, Ten Eyck, Rice, Ward and Vail—who shouldered the responsibility for the showing of their charges in the battle for the collegiate rowing supremacy of the nation.

On all hands it is declared that tomorrow's varsity race will produce the greatest contest in the history of this rowing classic and hard fights are promised also in the dashes of the freshmen eights and varsity fours. Not since the great race of 1905 has there been such an assemblage of first calibre oarsmen competing.

As usual Cornell is the heavy favorite to win the varsity race, with Columbia backed for the place. But little has been ascertained as to the strength of the Wisconsin aggregation, and they may prove to be the "dark horse." Syracuse did poorly in the early season, losing twice to the Middies, at Annapolis and Philadelphia. The improvement of the Rochester men during the last few weeks has been more than ordinary as they can not be counted out of it. Moreover,
Syracuse has perhaps the best position in the water of any of the crews, having drawn the number three course. Ellis Ward has kept the doings of his Pennsylvania charges more or less under cover of late, and it can not be said whether he has overcome the many obstacles of hard luck that beset him during the winter training.

Cornell brought along to Poughkeepsie at the beginning of the final workouts two weeks ago an outfit of thirty-six men, the most complete that has ever come to this town for the annual races.
In addition to the members of the varsity eight, the varsity four and the freshman eight, Coach Courtney brought along a corps of stewards—a four of substitute varsity oarsmen and another of substitute freshmen. It was thought at the beginning of the season that the Cornell varsity boat would be filled mostly with veterans. Things changed, however, as the veteran mentor developed from his novices several men superior to those in last year's boat. After many shifts and substitutions, he has selected a combination that stacks up as one of the best sent forth by Cornell in several years—and the Ithacans have been winning the event regularly almost as long as anybody can remember.

The new eight-oared shell built by John Hoyle, in which the Cornell crew was scheduled to row this year, has been abandoned because the men could not get used to it and preferred the old one.
Accordingly, Courtney will send his men to the mark in the old Hoyle shell which has won two successive years.

Last June Courtney was quoted as saying he would rather have his freshmen in the varsity race than the first eight. But the same condition does not hold forth this year, although the first year crew could not be called a weak
one. The Cornell varsity four has done fair work in trial spins.

When the Cornell oarsmen go out on the river tomorrow, they will be boat-ed as follows:

Varsity Eight—Elliott, bow; Bates, 2;
Jum, 3; Kruse, 4; Wakely, 5; Distler, 6; Ferguson, 7; Bowen, stroke, and Kimball, coxswain.

Freshman Eight—Eddy, bow; Murfey,
2; Keyes, 3; Hyland, 4; Larrows, 5; Spransy, 6; MacLachlan, 7; Howe, stroke and Thorpe, coxswain.

Varsity Four—Carpenter, bow; Laf-erty, 2; Small, 3; Doyle, stroke.

With one of the fastest two-mile crews among the colleges, the great task cut out for Jim Rice, of Columbia, has been to make them the same for four miles. Every day up to Sunday, he had the men go over the full course and those who have seen the eight perform declare he has succeeded in developing their stamina. The varsity has done well with the new English shell and the coach seems well pleased with the way in which his proteges have handled it of late. There is no sign of checking and the eight row it on a magnificently even keel. The shell is wide in the waist and is so built as to carry the bow well out of the water. This boat, it is believed, will be a big factor in the success or otherwise of the Light Blue and White.

Columbia will have the following in her boats.

Varsity Eight—Sage, bow; Cole, 2;
Pitt, 3; Bissell, 4; Phillips, 5; Moore, 6; Latenser, 7; Downing, stroke and Brock coxswain.

Varsity Four—Mahler, bow; Sinclair,
2; McDermott, 3, and Robinson stroke.

Freshman Eight—Herbert, bow; Crouze, 2; Williams, 3; Rothwell, 4;
Martin, 5; Peterson, 6; Hadsell, 7; Mc-Carthy, stroke, and Bird coxswain.

Coming out of the west unheralded by achievements in actual competition, Wisconsin is the unknown quantity of the race. The Badgers row the famous Harvard stroke—taught them by Harry Vail, formerly assistant under Coach Wray of Harvard. When the Westerners got out for their initial tuning up spin last week, it was the first time the true Crimson swin had been seen on the Hudson. It was plain, however, that they have been going under wraps since their arrival here, partly to keep their real ability unknown and partly because of their unfamiliarity with the ebb and flow of the tide. When they dipped their oars for the first time into the Hudson, the contrast startled them. One of the freshmen asked Coach Vail whether it was the salt that made his or pull "so funny." Vail has also had trouble in keeping an occupant in number 5. Mac-Miller, a veteran, was expelled from the crew a month ago and his varsity letter taken from him because he broke training rules in smoking a big black cigar.
Samp, who took his place, has been bothered with blood poisoning in his hand and the member is still a little weak.

The Badger freshmen are the star of the Westerner's fleet. The coach is enthusiastic about his farmers—for most of them are straight from off Western farms. The Wisconsin freshmen are expected to have easy sailing, if stories that have leaked out can be depended upon. The Badgers did not enter a four.

The men in their two boats will take positions as follows:

Varsity Eight—Templeton, bow; Rogers, 2; Sieblein, 3; Roberts, 4; Samp, 5; Pollock, 6; Kraatz, 7; Hare, stroke, and Corley, coxswain.

Freshmen Eight—Kennedy, bow; Cuff,
2; McCleod, 3; Wright, 4; Graf, 5; Ter-manson, 6; Rideout, 7; Tasker, stroke, and Fletcher, coxswain.

Ellis Ward has primed his Pennsyl-vanians to win the varsity fours, whether they perform creditably in the more important race or not. The four is the pet hobby of the Blue and White coach, who made his reputation in the noted
Ward four in which he rowed at bow.
The shell in which the Quaker four will race this year is modelled after the shell in which the Ward combination rowed to so many victories. Although it is practically unmanageable for almost any other college four, Ellis Ward has succeeded in teaching his four its secrets.

It will be a keen blow to Ward if this combination is not returned victorious.
Mulford, at bow, has had plenty of experience as a steersman, having rowed bow in the second four of a year ago.
Barrett, at No. 2, rowed in the freshman crew of two years ago, and for a while this year, he made a bid for a seat in the eight. Thompson, at No. 3, rowed in the freshman crew three years ago, and has been a candidate for the varsity each year since. Maderia, at stroke, set the pace for last year's freshman eight. A peculiar feature of this year's four is that Browne and Thomas, members of the four of a year ago, both failed to make teams.

With Tom Reath, veteran stroke, lost to the crew, and Hoagland new to the position, Pennsylvania's eight can not hope to do much. The freshman outfit also is not as strong as in former years.
The Syracuse crews have had a disastrous year, and Jim Ten Eyck kept them at home to practice on familiar waters until the last few days. Their defeat at the hands of the Middies at Annapolis does not show them in a very formidable light in tomorrow's race, but reports from the up-state town, where they made their last trial against time, indicate that they will prove stronger than might otherwise be anticipated. The Syracuse crews will be made up as follows:

Varsity Eight—Stroke, Thurston; No.
7, Vaughn; No. 6, Capt. Williams; No.
5, Frawley; No. 4, Grimm; No. 3, Topping; No. 2, Bobbitt; bow, Gregg; coxswain, Richardson.

Varsity Four—Stroke, Hall; No. 3, Crimmins; No. 2, Noxon; bow, Klock.
Freshman Eight—Stroke, Sumner-ville; No. 7, Hilfinger; No. 6, Dawson;
No. 5, Abbing; No. 4, Bobbins; No. 3, Rutan; No. 2, Crawford; bow, Butler; coxswain, Goes.

The stewards of the Intercollegiate Rowing Association decided to return to the original course for the regatta this year. All the crews will row under the second span of the Poughkeepsie bridge, and the outside crew will row ninety feet from the nearest bridge pier, disposing of the danger of eddies. The drawings

Andrew Carnegie once suggested as an epitaph for his own tombstone what he said was the secret of his success: "Here lies a man who surrounded himself with men abler than himself."

Many able people are working for you, scientists, inventors, manufacturers, all trying to make something you want. Do you use their brains and their efforts—"surround yourself with them"—or do you plod along by yourself, years behind the times?

Aids Nature

The great success of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery in curing weak stomachs, wasted bodies, weak lungs, and obstinate and lingering coughs, is based on the recognition of the fundamental truth that "Golden Medical Discovery" supplies Nature with body-building, tissue-repairing, muscle-making materials, in condensed and concentrated form. With this help Nature supplies the necessary strength to the stomach to digest food, build up the body and thereby throw off lingering obstinate coughs. The "Discovery" re-establishes the digestive and nutritive organs in sound health, purifies and enriches the blood, and nourishes the nerves—in short establishes sound vigorous health.

If your dealer offers something "just as good," it is probably better FOR HIM...it pays better. But you are thinking of the cure not the profit, so there's nothing "just as good" for you. Say so.

"The Frankfort University."

The proposed creation of a university at Frankfort is receiving a great deal of discussion. The city authorities have proposed to combine a number of scientific academies and institutions of learning already existing into a university. These institutions dispose of large endowment funds, and funds necessary to complete the university organization would, according to the proposal of the city council, be secured by voluntary contribution. In order to avoid increasing tax burden. The proposal has been submitted to the Prussian government. Considerable opposition to the "Frankfort university" has arisen, particularly in smaller university towns, such as Marburg and Giessen, which claim that students would be drawn away from the smaller colleges in this part of Germany by the creation of an important, well endowed seat of learning at Frankfort.

May Make Clothes From Trees.

"These cotton men, the growers of cotton, I mean, had better not be too importunate in their demands," remarked Herbert N. Tillinghast, from the Sheboygan District of Wisconsin. "We have made almost everything out of our spruce timber, including a lot of trouble for the tariff adjusters down here in Washington. Paper from wood is an old tale, and now comes the proposition to make clothes from wood, and good clothes that will wear better than the best of the cotton stuff. The cotton spinners have long been experimenting with cellulose extracted from our spruce timber, and they have proceeded on the assumption that bleached cotton is really almost pure cellulose. Following that idea the investigators have discovered a method of making thread from wood pulp."—Washington Post.

THE COFFEE TRUST IS NOW RECEIVING SOME ATTENTION

Manipulations Have Stirred Legislators And Government Trust Busters—Trust is on The Outlook as is Brazilian Government.

(By SYDNEY ESPEY.)
Special to Telegram.

Washington, June 26.—Manipulations of the International Coffee Trust have again stirred legislators and government trust busters and awakened fresh interest in the octopus of the breakfast table. It is believed that the recent transactions in coffee in both American and European markets are a result of the anti-trust agitation in Congress. These transactions, which were in warehoused coffee have aggregated nearly 1,000,000 bags. A bag contains about 133 pounds.

From indications it would seem that the coffee trust managers are getting ready to put up the strongest possible defense against the activities of this government in the coffee trust matter. So, too, is the government of Brazil, which is known to be much concerned about the possibility of serious friction in its commercial relations with the United States.

So grave in fact, has this friction become that it has lately become known that the Brazilian government has addressed diplomatic representations to the State Department concerning this government's views and intentions regarding the coffee trust. It is not known what form these inquiries took, or what reply to them was made by Secretary of State Knox. At present it is pointed out that the investigation that has been, or is about to be, inaugurated by the government—for no one is supposed to know whether the government is investigating the coffee trust or not—and inquiries at the Department of Justice elicit no definite reply—has not produced results sufficiently definite to make clear what action will be necessary. Consequently, if reported information is correct, the Brazilian government is no wiser today concerning the steps that the United States is taking to break up the pool of coffee capitalists than it was when inquiries were recently made at the State Department.

However, Brazil is not resting on her oars. That government is sitting up and taking a whole lot of notice of what is going on. One story has it that there are a number of Brazilian secret service agents in this country watching the moves that are made by the government investigators. If this be true, it is safe to say that Brazil is as fully advised of what this government is doing in respect to the coffee trust as the Department of Justice officials and the President. The coffee exchange people in New York are also on the lookout and are displaying much activity. The trust is highly unpopular with the coffee brokers and merchants, as well as with the wholesalers, retailers and consumers. The brokers and jobbers complain that the trust keeps such a tight hand on the market that there is no speculative possibility. Its domination of supplies is such that anybody attempting an independent movement can instantly be swamped by the overpowering might of the trust, either by withholding supplies, or dumping them on the market.

Against the argument admitted by the independents and allied interests the Brazilian government and the trust point out that the maintenance of price stability

ity and prevention of fluctuations have been advantageous to the trade and the consumer. The combination, it is declared, has not advanced prices beyond a reasonable point.

According to experts of the Department of Justice, the coffee trust has about 1,500,000 bags of coffee in warehouses in the United States. The production has been so far checked by the laws of Brazil that last year's output is believed to have been within the consumption, so that the world, through its consumption, is beginning to reduce the surplus stock.

To effect the arbitrary restrictions imposed on the consumers in all parts of the world, particularly the United States. It has been suggested by a number of law makers and others that a countervailing duty should be placed on Brazilian coffee imported into the United States. Necessarily this has caused the Brazilian government a great deal of concern, as the United States is one of its heaviest customers.

The suggestion to investigate the trust started through Representative Norris, of Nebraska, in discussing the grasping tendencies of the trust and the greed of both the trust officials and the Brazilian government.

Diplomats from nearly all of the independent coffee growing districts of the world, and the independent coffee interests, declared that a countervailing duty by the United States would induce a big increase in production, and in a few years they believe would restore the market to a normal balance and cripple the trust.

Meanwhile, with the tariff makers talking and the diplomats agitating, the Department of Justice is saying nothing but quietly investigating the American end of the coffee trust.

As late as April 15, Attorney General Wickersham gave his Bureau of Investigation and Research the necessary authority to send several men abroad on a secret mission. It was afterwards discovered that their business was to investigate the methods of the coffee trust in handling its products. Men have also been sent to Brazil where this end of the business conducted by the coffee trust has been thoroughly investigated. Now the inspectors and investigators are making a systematic investigation of the trust methods in the United States.

Just what is to be done with the trust, is, of course, not definitely known. At all events the subject is being thoroughly investigated by the Department of Justice and should Congress express a desire to have the trust proceeded against under the Sherman anti trust law Attorney General Wickersham will be ready to comply.

TWO RATHER BRIGHT DOGS

One Recognized the Letter Was Over-Weight and the Other Perceived Wrong Address.

Two suburbanites, one living near Morton and the other near Primos, were swapping stories of country life as they went home on the 5:35 train. "I have a most intelligent dog," said the Primos man. "I just hand him a letter and say: 'There, Spot!' and off he goes to the post office. I gave him one yesterday and he dropped it. He refused to pick it up, but wagged his tail instead. I suspected something was wrong and picked up the letter and weighed it. It required two cents more postage."

Without the least show of surprise the man from Morton proceeded with his story. "Dogs are intelligent," he began. "My collie, Carlo, always posts my letters, and one day he, like your dog, dropped a letter on the floor. I thought possibly one stamp was not enough, but in weighing the letter I found that the postage was all right. I gave it back to Carlo; but he let it fall again to the floor. I inspected the letter carefully and found that it was addressed to South Penn square, New York, instead of to Philadelphia."—Philadelphia Times.

Cobwebby Parasols.

There is nothing daintier in effect, nor more fragile, than some of the new afternoon parasols. Tissue, both gold and silver, appears in their composition, and when raised to the sun they are as cobwebs made of jeweled threads.

When composed entirely of tissue they are backed by a thin silk, but otherwise parasols are unlined.

Sticks are long, and for morning, or what might be called back about, they are of wood in various degrees of carving. Rarely are the handles other than slender. For afternoon use; silver, and silver gilt appear in elaborate designs as handles, and carved ivory is having a decided vogue for the purpose.

Grenadine for Evening Frocks.

One of the materials for evening wear in the early spring is grenadine. This name is a familiar one to the purchaser of lightweight black goods, but the new grenadine is much different from the old variety.

One form of it is so light that it might almost be mistaken for embroidered chiffon, except that the ground is stiffer. This material comes in the 44-inch width and in several weights, the lightest of which is the one used for evening frocks.

Satin designs, flower and conventional, are embossed in the surface, and when made up over a bright color the effect is lovely.

Clean Coffee Pots.

Physicians claim that the unclean coffee pot is one of the worst menaces to health. Housewives often neglect to keep the inside of the coffee pot as clean as the outside. The result is a decided loss in taste and aroma. The inside of the pot should be cleaned every day with powdered knife brick or fine sand. Then after a good scalding with boiling water put it out for a sun and air bath.

Fabric Wall Papers.

Wall papers are imitating all sorts of weaves and copying no end of antique designs. Among the fabrics there are denim, burlap, linen crashes, basket cloths, chambrays, dimities, batiste, muslin and the like. These come plain or striped. These fabrics are especially well combined for summer homes with chintz and cretonne patterns and the old stencil motives. Of papers in cretonne pattern, with the actual fabric to match them, there is an endless assortment. Two-toned all-over leaf and flower designs on fabric grounds are among the new things.

FETES FOR AGED COUPLES

How Honor is Paid the Old People in France by Public Festivals.

Rhems has just been celebrating an interesting event, the golden wedding of 60 old couples, says the Westminster Review.

The fete is as old as the Revolution, when it first seems to have begun. In the time of the directory there were two fetes, the fete of the old people and the fete of the golden wedding. This seems to have been a very pretty affair, to judge from the account in the Debats. There was a procession of oxen, with their horns crowned with flowers, followed by children crowned with violets, by young men wreathed with myrtle, and old men with garlands of olives and girls dressed as vestal virgins.

At Paris in August, 1797, there was a great festival in honor of the old men, who were all given seats at the Opera, when "a gracious Hebe crowned their white locks with garlands of roses," and the soldiers presented arms. The idea of the fete was the encouragement of the family circle. The old man, who was a happy grandfather, was feted as an encouragement to the younger generation to follow in his footsteps.

The man or woman who leads an active life unconsciously draws upon the vital force and produces such a waste of energy that Nature sends in her warnings, which, if unheeded result in a condition of steady decline. These warnings from Nature come in different guises; melancholy, sleeplessness, indigestion, muscular weakness, trembling of the limbs, forgetfulness, irritability, insomnia, loss of vital force and power to endure. These are all sure indications that you need DR. CAREY'S LIFE TONE TABLETS. These warnings should be accepted as danger signals. DO NOT NEGLECT THEM, take prompt measures to undo what your neglect has done. Procure a package of DR. CAREY'S LIFE TONE TABLETS at once, take them according to directions, they may save you years of suffering and remorse. They are the surest means of arresting nervous decline, and of restoring you to a condition of complete health and strength of body, brain and power. They are positive, quick and permanent, they have no bad after effects common to many so-called remedies for these diseases. The result of taking them is soon noticeable by the renewed interest and joy of life; a keen sense of reserved and stored up power and energy. You will surely find this to be true.

If you cannot sleep nights, if you lay awake and brood and worry over real and imaginary troubles, you are in the grip of insomnia and you are in danger. Insomnia leads to insanity. It also may develop to complete nervous exhaustion and prostration. If this describes your condition, no time should be lost in beginning the LIFE TONE TREATMENT.

PEOPLE WHO NEVER EXISTED

Immense Circle of Acquaintances Created for Us by Minds of Great Writers.

An enthusiast's dictionary of the novels of Sir Walter Scott informs us that there are no less than 2,836 characters in his stories. These figures serve to make us realize how surprisingly large is the circle of purely imaginative acquaintances whose names and characteristics and stories the lover of literature and art stores in his memory in the course of a lifetime, and how cosmopolitan the company is.

In infancy we are introduced to the early racial circle of acquaintances whom we inherit from our earliest ancestors—fairies good and wicked, heroes of many climes, imaginary people whom we never forget and do not allow to be forgotten by those who come after us. Then follow the giants of childhood—Robinson Crusoe, Christian the Pilgrim, Don Quixote, Gulliver. Passing acquaintances, once liked, but readily forgotten, we pass over. And now the circle widens suddenly. The companions of a lifetime come trooping out of the past and present—Homer's heroes and heroines, King Arthur's court, Canterbury pilgrims, Shakespeare's immortal company, the men and women Thackeray drew, a few of George Eliot's characters, Dickens' unforgettable types, and from abroad, Dumas' swashbucklers, Balzac's crowded human comedy, some of Daudet's personages, Tolstoy's Anna, Kipling's Soldiers Three and junglefolk, Hester Prynne, Meredith's great creations, Anatole France's M. Bergeret and his contemporaries.—New York Tribune.

Everything Favorable for Big Crop.

New York, June 26.—The Big Crop of Commerce says:

Georgia—So many correspondents report percentage conditions as 100 and quite a few others above 100 that the prospect for a full crop is very bright. Conditions in many sections are ideal and the plant is strong and healthy. Cotton had been needing rain but bountiful showers afforded sufficient moisture for the present. The drought really proved beneficial, enabling farm work to proceed, with the result that fields are well cultivated and free from grass, no

Speak Only on Invitation.

In the heavily cushioned seats of a train speeding through Massachusetts sat Josiah White and his wife. It was the first time either had been outside the limits of St. Lawrence county, to say nothing of riding in such luxury, with new and ever-changing scenery around them. As the train neared Boston Josiah nudged his wife.

"Abbie," said he, close to her ear, "don't say a word to me and I won't to you while we're going through this city. It ain't polite, unless you're invited."

"What?"

"Yes. This is Boston, the place we've heard so much on as being 'the city of the cultured,' and I just overheard one of them distinguished-looking gentlemen in the seat ahead tell the other he was going to stop off here because he has been invited to speak here tonight."—Judge.

All in the Use.

Even the best things, ill used, become evils, and, contrarily, the worst things used well prove good. A good tongue used to deceit; a good wit used to defend error; a strong arm to murder; authority to oppress; a good profession to dissemble; are all evil. Even God's own word is the sword of the spirit, which, if it kills not our vices, kills our souls. Contrariwise (as poisons are used to wholesome medicines), afflictions and sins, by a good use, prove so gainful as nothing more. Words are as they are taken, and things are as they are used. There are even cursed blessings.—Bishop Hall.

Two Sides.

Willis—Why don't you go to church? Gills—Too far. Why don't you go? Willis—We live next door to one, and I hate to get all dressed up just to go that little way.—Puck.

insects are reported and in many sections the season is early. Stands are good and everything is favorable for a big crop. There is decided improvement over last month.

Alabama—Notwithstanding numerous complaints of too much dry weather cotton shows improvement over last month, good rains have fallen in many sections and prospects are generally very good. The plant is strong and well fruited, cultivation is exceptionally good and freedom from insects is noticeable. With or Blight is appearing in a few sections but damage is very slight. A number of correspondents consider prospects the brightest in years. No complaints of a late season are heard.

The Outlook Fine for Big Crop.

Memphis, Tenn., June 26.—Memphis Commercial Appeal in its weekly report gives the following:

In Alabama and Mississippi the outlook is the best in years. Conditions approaching ideal. They are little less favorable in South Carolina where rainfall was not sufficient. In western Texas and Oklahoma the crop has suffered not injury yet, but ground molding is quite dry and such light and scattered showers as have fallen have given but little relief. Rain is rapidly becoming necessary for a good cotton crop. In Arkansas, Louisiana and southern Mississippi boll weevils are becoming more numerous but are not so bad as this time last year.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, June 26.—A search into the recent rain reports reveals the fact that many of them were exaggerated. A competent source in Texas writes as follows: After a thorough investigation of the recent rainfall we have come to the conclusion that after all the government records have been the only correct ones and that other reports have been very much exaggerated. If general soaking rains don't come shortly we think the crop will be in very critical position.

The market opened unchanged on old crop, although 4,500 notices were out against July and advanced to 13.03 for October on buying on the unfavorable weather conditions in the western half of the belt over Sunday. However, a government forecast of unsettled weather and showers for northwest Texas, Oklahoma and Arkansas and increasing cloudiness in the rest of Texas restored courage and under heavy selling prices soon broke to 12.92 for October. There is a cool wave near Oklahoma which may cause some precipitation there but it is by no means certain and there are no indications yet of general rains such as are needed. The market in the near future will depend entirely on weather developments in the West. In case there should be good rains the market would experience more bear pressure and less support, but if this chance for rain should again be disappointed, then a serious crop report in the Western States could no longer be suppressed. The July notices were all stopped by spot houses.

HAYWARD & CLARK.

Awful Inquisition.

A little colored girl, deeply insulted by her playmate, who had pushed her "offa de stoop," took her case before the justice of the peace. He inquired into the circumstances and said, turning to the injured one:

"The plaintiff is allowed to ask the defendant a question, in regard to the assault."

"What's dat yo' say, sah?"

"I say that you may ask the defendant a question."

"Wh-whattil Ah ask her, sah?"

"Any question you like."

The child studied the floor a moment. Then, with the politest of smiles, she inquired, "Sally, am yo' mamma well?"—Everybody's Magazine.

A Wretched Pun.

The professor had paid a long-delayed visit to a neighboring tonsorial parlor.

Later in the day he encountered his implacable enemy, the doctor.

"Well," remarked the doctor, critically inspecting him, "you look a little more like a civilized human being."

"On the contrary," frowned the professor, running his fingers through his cropped beard, "I look like a relic of barbarism."—Chicago Tribune.

Delusions of the Ear.

There is a cure, it seems, for so-called delusions of the ear in deaf people who think they hear sounds like the whistling of wind, the rustling of leaves, the crackling noises of a telephone, thunder, organ pipes or shouting. Such sounds are remembered, says Doctor Marage, a French aurist, and are caused by persistent excitation of the auditory nerve centers.

He has invented an apparatus for studying these really inaudible but none the less tormenting noises, which are apt to take the form in time of a persistent delusion, and he has succeeded in relieving many sufferers by applications of electric alternating currents of very high frequency or by electric massage.

Do You Read the WANT ADS?

Have you found out what interesting news is contained in the want page? There is a reason why want ads are interesting to everybody. Supply and demand create a market. The man who has an article which he has no further use for, with the assistance of a little want ad, can find readily the other man who is looking for just that article. On the other hand the man who is looking for some particular article can find the man who has it and who it perhaps has not occurred that he can sell it, thus by means of the want ad purchasers and sellers for small articles get together.

Try a Want Ad in The Telegram, it makes no difference what you want, tell it here.

NORTH STATE CAPITAL NEWS

Raleigh, June 26.—Grand Master R. N. Hackett, of the North Carolina Grand Lodge of Masons, says the work cannot possibly begin on the Masonic Home for Aged and Infirm Masons at Greensboro before the fall although the contract has already been let for the main building. The contract is awarded, he says, with the stipulation that the work is not to begin until certain matters have been attended to that will take thirty days or longer. He and the committee had hoped to have the main building ready to turn over to the Grand Lodge completed at the annual convocation here in January but the best they can hope for now is to have the walls up and the roof on by that time. They are proceeding in the surest possible way rather than the fastest and are determined to steer clear of any financial complications.

A charter was issued today for the Lumberton Motor Car Co., of Lumberton, Robeson county, capital $25,000 authorized and $1,000 subscribed by A. H. McLeod, H. M. McAllister and others for general motor car agency and garage business.

The State Text-Book Commission and Sub-commission entered today on the third and last week of the hearings they are giving the book men on the merits of the books they are offering for adoption for use in the public schools of the state for the next five years. It is expected that the hearings will be completed by Thursday. Governor Kitchen has not been attending the hearings, although he is a regular member of the commission. However, this morning it was necessary to send for him to come up to make out a quorum so that the hearing could proceed, a number of the state officers being detained for the time on other matters.

Chief Justice Walter Clark, of the North Carolina Supreme Court, who is a candidate for the United States Senate to succeed Senator F. M. Simmons, will leave tomorrow for Toxaway, to attend the North Carolina Bar Association, to be in annual session there. The senatorial contest has been decidedly quiet for some time since the entries have practically closed with Simmons, Kitchen, Aycock and Clark as the candidates, but it is expected that there will be some strenuous campaigning among the members of the Bar Association by friends of all four candidates, if all are not there in person.

The executive committee of the board of trustees of the University of North Carolina, in session today in the office of Governor Kitchen, formally established the Ledoux Fellowship for the University, the support for it to be the $5,000 gift that A. R. Ledoux, of New York, made to the University for the purpose. The donor was state chemist at the University many years ago.

At the same meeting steps were taken that closed the deal by which the University sells the sewerage system, except that portion that serves the University buildings and grounds to the town of Chapel Hill with the result that the system is to be materially improved and extended.

A sub-commission of the State Building Commission composed of Chairman Ashley Horne, and Commissioners J. Elwood Cox and J. A. Long, is conferring here preparatory for a meeting of the full commission tomorrow when the detailed instructions are to be given to the architects as to the interior arrangements of the building. They are considering especially just what state departments shall be given place in the new building.

Mr. S. B. Shaw, assistant horticulturist, has returned from Alexander and Wilkes counties, where he went to investigate fruit conditions in the Brushy mountains. Mr. Shaw says the conditions for a crop of apples in these counties are good, but that the average for the state will not be over 30 per cent. In McDowell and Yancey counties, where the snow caught the apple and peach trees in bloom, a fair crop is indicated. The peach crop in this state will not average more than five per cent. of normal. In some sections of the mountains, where the farmers are co-operating with each other in the care of their

Wesley Class Reception At Centenary Last Night.

The reception given to the members of Centenary church and Sunday school by the Men's Wesley class at the church last night was a most delightful occasion. The large auditorium was well filled with the happy crowd that gathered at 8:30 o'clock and the audience was delightfully entertained by a literary and musical program rendered by Miss Sallie Embrey, Miss Eddie Bell, Miss Annie Jones, Mrs. B. C. Sharpe, Miss Rosalie Smith and the church quartet.

B. E. Smith, teacher of the class, expressed the gratitude of the class to those present for their interest in the occasion. He then gave a brief history of the class and its work, stating that it began one year ago with twenty men who had not been going to Sunday school, and that the membership has now grown to fifty, all of them men who had not been in any Sunday school. A number of the official members of the church are included in this class as well as a number of leading business and professional men of the city. Mr. Smith mentioned that the class not only took delight in its work directly in the Sunday school, but that it was all the time doing something for the social enjoyment of the members and their friends.

Refreshments were served in the Sunday school room to one hundred and fifty people at a time until all had been bountifully and delightfully served. This occasion was a unique one, the first this church has ever had, but so pleased were all that it was decided to hold such gatherings at regular intervals in the future.

Building Permits.

Permits were issued yesterday by Building Inspector Milton as follows: J. C. Bishop for a seven room residence on Frisco street, costing approximately $2,000; City of Greensboro for a five-room residence on North Green street, costing approximately $1,700; J. T. B. Shaw for a four-room house on Gibson street, costing $500.

Rules Adopted By Board of Health

At a recent meeting of the County Board of Health the following measures were passed upon:

First—After July 1, 1911, the physicians of Guilford County will be required to report, on furnished blanks, all births and deaths occurring within the county.

Second—After July 1, 1911, the physicians of Guilford County will be required to send an immediate report of the following infectious diseases to the county superintendent of health: Smallpox, diphtheria, scarlet fever, measles, mumps, typhoid fever.

Third—Physicians of the county of Guilford will be required, after July 1, 1911, to vaccinate, immediately upon diagnosing a case of smallpox in a family, all the other members of the family who have not been successfully vaccinated within the last five (5) years and all others who have been exposed to the case.

The above rules do not apply to the incorporate limits of Greensboro and High Point.

Since the State Board of Health no longer recommends, and the law no longer requires, the quarantining of smallpox as has been done heretofore, the County Board of Health in order to protect the people of the county in general, and the school children in particular, from smallpox, urges parents of the children attending schools in the county to have their children vaccinated before the beginning of the schools in September.

Beginning with January 1, 1911, all persons attending the public schools of the county will be required, upon entering school, to present a certificate of immunity from smallpox, either from recent successful vaccination or from a previous attack of the disease. These certificates must be signed by physicians. Any person allowing a pupil to violate the requirement will be guilty of a misdemeanor.

CHARGED HIS DAUGHTERS WITH COMMITTING LARCENY.

Before Justice of the Peace D. H. Collins yesterday morning a case was tried in which John Wylie charged his two daughters, Annie and Sallie Wylie, with the larceny of numerous household articles from his home seven miles north of the city. All the parties figuring in the trial are negroes. There was no convicting evidence against the two girls and they were discharged. The old man was guilty of suspecting his daughters, both of whom are employed as cooks in highly respectable homes, without sufficient grounds and as a consequence was taxed with the costs of the proceedings.

An Auto Hayride.

Saturday evening Roger Jennings gave a delightful auto-hayride to twenty-four young people in honor of Miss Edith Muir, who will leave in a few days for her future home in Massachusetts. The party, chaperoned by Mrs. Muir, went out to the Battle Ground where a delightful luncheon was served. The use of a large auto van in the stead of the customary stubborn mules added to the enjoyment of the young people and the occasion was enjoyed to the utmost. Those who enjoyed Mr. Jennings' hospitality were Misses Edith and Margaret Muir, Marion Jones, Margaret Forbis, Margaret Glenn, Susie Gunter, May Gordon Latham, Fannie Stone and Kathleen Denny; Hugh Scott, Max Hendrix, Charles Denny, Jim Moore, Brockton Lyon, Henry Yates, Albert Wilson.

Bride Entertains For Bride-o-Be.

Mrs. Sidnor DeButts entertained at a charming bridge party yesterday afternoon from 5 to 7 o'clock at the home of her parents on West Washington street in honor of Miss Marian Lea, whose wedding to H. J. Donnelly will be solemnized at the First Presbyterian church tomorrow evening. The added touch of romance beside the approaching marriage of the honoree is the fact that the invitations to the reception of yesterday were issued by Miss Ellen Cutchin, who since that time has herself become a bride, by a surprise marriage to Sidnor DeButts in Spartanburg, S. C., on last Tuesday night. So closely had the secret of the elopement been kept that not until Saturday night did friends of the couple discover the fact that they were man and wife. Accordingly the hostess and the honor guest at the entertainment were both showered with congratulations and good wishes for their happiness in married life.

The informality of the entire affair and the charming hospitality of the hostess were matters of special enjoyment to the guests.

The attractive home was daintily decorated with Queen's lace, ferns and sweet peas. Tables for bridge were set and three merry games were in progress at the same time. Handsome bunches of sweet peas were presented to the prize-winners at each of the tables. Delightful refreshments were later served by the hostess, consisting of angel food cake, cream, mints and punch.

During the progress of the party Miss Lea was presented with a beautiful hammered brass fern dish by the hostess. Several of the young ladies who are to serve as bridesmaids at the wedding of the honoree were among the guests of Mrs. DeButts.

FRIENDSHIP SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

Held Sunday at Pleasant Ridge, Well Attended and Interesting Program Carried Out.

Special to Greensboro Telegram. Guilford College, June 26.—The annual convention of the Friendship Township Sunday School District was held Sunday in the Pleasant Ridge Christian Church. The morning session was called to order shortly after ten o'clock, by President C. B. Higgins. There were approximately two hundred in attendance during the day. The program for the morning session was interesting and included roll-call of the Sunday Schools and their annual reports, recitations by some of the children and addresses.

Prof. John W. Woody of Guilford College, gave a very interesting review of the lessons for the first six months of the year, using a map and blackboard.

Mr. F. S. Blair spoke on "Peace," urging the Sunday schools to give special attention to the Peace Lessons. The convention was adjourned at noon for dinner on the grounds, many of those present having brought baskets. After enjoying the spread and recess, the afternoon session was called to order. At this session the four little children of President Higgins sang a quartette. Mr. H. G. Braxton, of Greensboro, spoke on the organized class and teacher training work. The election of officers for the ensuing year resulted as follows:

President, C. B. Higgins was re-elected; for vice president, Dr. A. T. Millis; for secretary, Mr. Henry Smith. At the suggestion of Dr. Millis, and upon motion of Mr. Blair, adjournment was taken subject to the call of executive committee meeting.

Dr. Millis' suggestion was that the district ought to have a convention just prior to the county convention in order to select delegates, the motion unanimously prevailed.

A DEADLOCK BETWEEN HOUSE AND SENATE SEEMS INEVITABLE

Democrats Want to Revise Tariff Schedule by Schedule According to Promise, But Republicans in Senate Will, Most Likely, Oppose This Action.

(By JONATHAN WINFIELD.)

Special to Telegram.

Washington, June 26.—A deadlock between the House and Senate over the legislative program seems inevitable, according to the latest ultimatum issued by Representative Underwood, the Democratic floor leader of the House and chairman of its ways and means committee.

The House Democrats have announced their intention to proceed with a revision of the tariff schedule by schedule. There is no indication whatever that the Senate proposes to consider any legislation except the Canadian reciprocity agreement, to approve which Congress was called in extra session by the President.

During the debate on the wool bill in the House, Representative Underwood, pressed by the questions of Representative Moore, of Pennsylvania, a Republican, announced that the Democrats proposed to proceed with their program and that if the Senate failed to pass the measures put up to it by the Democratic House that the Democrats would take the issue directly to the people.

Representative Underwood plainly indicated that the Democrats do not propose to stop their tariff revision program after the passage of the wool bill. He told the Pennsylvania Republican that the Democratic attitude was well understood, stating:

"We have announced that we intend to revise the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill from top to bottom. The only one to stop us is the Republican Senate and a Republican President. If we are stopped by them we will take the issue direct to the country, and we will count upon it for vindication of our position."

Representative Moore declared that the industries of the country would be alarmed by the Underwood announcement. Representative Underwood could not see it that way.

The announcement of Mr. Underwood, however, regardless of any partisan qualities, is significant in this respect: It indicates that the House and the Senate are destined to a serious disagreement before the end of the extra session. The legislative line-up is at present as follows:

The House has passed Canadian reciprocity by an overwhelming majority. The Senate is expected to pass the bill, and it is believed that the Root amendment, which embarrasses the bill, will be defeated. President Taft having said that any amendment to the treaty will invalidate it.

The House has also passed the Farmers' Free List Bill. It is not believed that the Senate regulars will permit this measure to get beyond the Senate committee on finance, and the first clash between the Democratic House and the Republican Senate will occur there.

The House is now considering, and will undoubtedly pass, the Underwood bill which reduces the tariff on the woolen schedule of the Payne tariff act. The Democratic measure places an ad valorem duty of only 20 per cent on raw wool and leaves an average duty of 42.55 per cent on manufactured woolsens.

It is also expected that the Senate will chloroform this measure as soon as it reaches the finance committee, as the present intention of the Senate is to keep the Payne-Aldrich bill inviolate so far as the present extra session is concerned.

The House has passed the bill providing for the direct election of Senators by vote of the people. The Senate has added the Bristow amendment which reserves to the Federal government the right to supervise the time, manner and place of holding Senatorial elections. This amendment is particularly obnoxious to Southern members of Congress who are confronted with the negro problem in their section of the country.

It is not believed that the House will ever approve the Bristow amendment, which still further strengthens the belief that there will be a deadlock between the two houses of Congress before the end of the extra session.

The House committee on ways and means is now at work on a revision of the cotton schedule. The Senate is just as bitterly opposed to a revision of the cotton schedule as it is to tinkering with the woolen schedule.

Representative Underwood has served notice that the Democratic House will not be content with a mere postponement of action on these matters by the Senate. The Democrats of the House, even if they keep Congress in session until next December, are determined that the Senate shall take some definite action upon all these matters.

"The bills must either be defeated or they must be buried in committee rooms, and the Senate must clearly state that they do not propose to take up the measures we send over to them," said Representative Underwood. "If the Senate refuses to act upon these measures, the country will know where to place the responsibility for the lack of remedial legislation. The House will continue to send these bills over to the Senate until the upper body shows that it will either pass or defeat them, or until it signifies that they will be buried in committee."

The House leaders declare that the Payne-Aldrich tariff bill has been repudiated by the country in the November elections, and that it is incumbent upon the majority in the House to take up the bill schedule by schedule and to revise the bill as rapidly as possible. Democrats declare that they will do their best to carry out their platform promises. If their efforts are blocked by a deadlock owing to the inactivity of the Republican Senate, the House leaders believe that they will have ample justification to go before the country in 1912 with the claim that they have done their best.

Owing to Mr. Underwood's latest announcement there is little hope in the House or the Senate that Congress can be adjourned within the next sixty days, and it is possible that the extra session may extend into September, while the Senate and House wrangle over a revision of the tariff.
